I find it very disappointing, that I have been lead on, an fooled into thinking That u have been tryin to help me, it's very unprofessional for u to have lied to me an tell me u see where I have an interview as a cheesemaker, knowing the hole time my name never came across their desk, are any other positions I applied for at state, all I wanted was a fair an honest chance, to get back home. Do u realize that I was denied donated leave time, in 2015 when I was 3 hours short, for being in hospital, with 22 stitches, when I asked Wayne about it he said I couldn't get it, was my situation serious enough, I'd say so, because I sgined a form giveing the dr permission to give me blood, do u realize iv been charged 11 hours on an 8 hour day, an theirs more, all I'm asking is can we act like adults here, Can I have a chance for rehire. All I need is 3 more years,

Hi Derek,

You are not marked in the system as not eligible for rehire. I saw that you had an interview for the Cheesemaker position. Please continue to watch the employment site for opportunities.

Mr. Hunt,

Amy Tuck forwarded me your email to her to respond. Because of a continued violation of the departmental/university time and attendance policy over a number of years, (HRM policy 60.401), the University will not be able to allow you to continue your employment. We will, however, allow you to resign your position rather than be terminated. By resigning, you will be allowed to apply for other jobs at the University in the future. Please let me know as soon as possible if you would like to resign rather than continue as terminated.

Thank you,

Leslie
